

U.S. seeks arms treaty with Russia

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan said Thursday the United States has submitted a draft treaty to the Soviet Union for mutual reduction of medium-range nuclear weapons and "a major contribution to security, stability and peace."

The proposal, which embodies a 50 percent reduction in medium-range nuclear weapons in Europe, was placed on a negotiating table in Geneva on Tuesday, according to David R. Gergen, a senior White House spokesman. Gergen said it contained no new proposals.

In a written statement, Reagan said the Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev "to join us in this important first step to reduce the nuclear shadow that hangs over the peoples of the world."

The Soviet leader on Wednesday proposed a two-thirds cut in U.S. and Soviet medium-range nuclear weapons in Europe by 1990 and said the United States was avoiding serious negotiations on the issue.

The Reagan announcement, read from the podium in the White House press briefing room after a reporter's inquiry, left the administration in the unusual position of outlining its course while both sides in the talks in Geneva have proclaimed a news blackout.

It could be intended to help persuade Western Europe that the United States is serious about the arms talks while pushing for allied support of sanctions against the Soviet Union in the wake of the military crackdown in Poland.

Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. has said the Geneva talks are in a special category and should be insulated from the ups and downs of the U.S.-Soviet relationship. Arms talks resumed Jan. 12.

Argentina taking role in El Salvador fighting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Argentina's military government has undertaken a "paramilitary" role in Central America, a move aimed at destabilizing Nicaragua's leftist government and cutting off supplies to rebels in El Salvador, congressional sources said Thursday.

One source said Argentina's role has been in "coordination" with the United States, but he said it was unclear how much encouragement and support the Reagan administration has provided, if any.

At the White House, spokesman David R. Gergen refused comment and then cautioned reporters against reading a confirmation or denial into his no comment.

Asked if the United States would engage in overt or covert action, or join with another nation, to overthrow a government now in place, Gergen replied that "policy statements" have been made on the issue in the past and that he would not try to repeat them "off the top of my head."

A spokesman at the Argentine Embassy in Washington called the report "completely an invention." State Department spokesman Alan Romberg refused comment, but added that lack of a response should not be read as "an implicit confirmation."

On Tuesday, Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. said the United States, in cooperation with its Latin American allies, would do "whatever is necessary" to block a victory by leftists in El Salvador.

In Senate testimony, Haig said the administration was "considering a whole range of options — political, economic and security — in response to Cuban intervention in this hemisphere."

This week, the State Department also stepped up its verbal attack against leftist Nicaragua, denouncing it as "a base for the export of subversion and armed intervention throughout Central America."

State Department sources have long said the use of a third-party military force was one possible alternative to sending U.S. combat troops to Central America, a step President Reagan has repeatedly said he does not intend to take.

The sources, however, said the intervention of other countries in the political turmoil of Central America could draw in other nations and end up spreading the conflict throughout Latin America.

One informed source said the Argentines have a military training mission in El Salvador, totaling about 50 men. However, El Salvador's ambassador to the United States, Ernesto Rivas Gallant, denied the presence of any Argentinian military trainers.

Congressional sources said Argentina's role in Nicaragua and El Salvador dates to before the current U.S. policy review.

One source said that since November, Argentinian military officers have been involved in training about 1,000 Nicaraguans fighting for the overthrow of the leftist Sandinista government.

Franklin attacked by prison inmates

MARION, Ill. (AP) — Joseph Paul Franklin, a white racist convicted of murdering two black joggers in Salt Lake City, was stabbed about 15 times in his cell block by one or more inmates at the Marion federal prison, the FBI said Thursday.

Robert Davenport, special agent for the FBI in Springfield, said Franklin, 31, Mobile, Ala., was stabbed in the neck and abdomen with a homemade knife Wednesday night, three days after he arrived at the maximum-security prison.

He was transferred to Marion from the U.S. Medical Center for Federal Prisoners at Springfield, Mo.

Franklin was treated at the Marion prison and taken to a hospital where he was in stable condition Thursday and under guard by three correctional officers, said Dean Leed, a prison spokesman.

"We really don't know if it (the stabbing) was racially motivated or not," Davenport said.

It's possible that more than one inmate was involved in the attack, he said, but he would not identify the inmates or give their names.

The weapon used was similar to an ice pick, Davenport said. It was found near the unlocked cell where Franklin was assaulted, he said.

Officials were alerted to the attack about 6:25 p.m. "He was able to walk back to a correctional officer's cell (he was) bleeding, and obviously he had been attacked," Davenport said.

Franklin was convicted in September of first-degree murder for the August 1980 sniper slayings of two black men who were running down as they jogged with white women in a Salt Lake City park. He was sentenced to two consecutive life terms.

Haws vetos new election spending rule

By JULIE POTTER
Senior Reporter

A veto Thursday by ASBYU President Kasey Haws reversed new restrictive spending bylaws governing ASBYU election expenditures.

If the veto is not overridden in Tuesday's executive council meeting, election bylaws will allow candidates to spend as they have in years past.

Haws said that last year it was possible to spend a "modest" amount of money and still campaign adequately. But this year, new bylaws regarding campaign spending are more strict in determining what qualifies as a reusable or borrowed item, he said.

Tuesday the ASBYU Executive Council voted to defeat an elections-committee proposal that would allow vice presidential candidates to spend $250 on their campaign and presidential teams to spend $400. The maximum budget now remains the same at $200 and $250, respectively.

Because the proposal did not pass, Haws said he believed he should veto the revisions that prompted the proposal.

The revisions restricted campaign spending on reusable items (such as paint brushes and rope) and made it difficult to claim an item was borrowed for campaign use.

If the proposal had been passed, it would have compensated for the new restrictions by allowing students to spend more money, Haws said.

In the past students have spent much more than their actual budgets allowed by purchasing reusable items they didn't have to figure in the budget and by borrowing items friends had bought, said Larry Friis, elections committee chairman.

Haws' veto does not mean the maximum budgets have been changed to $250 and $400, Haws said. The veto means the financial expenditures for elections will be handled "the same way they were last year and the year before that and the year before that," Haws said.

Last year a paint brush or rope did not have to be declared as a campaign expense, because it could be used after the campaign was over, Haws said. With the new bylaws, he said, such items must be counted as cost as a campaign expense.

Haws said, "I think it's fair. I'm aware of the dangers of letting people spend as much as they want. I'm just concerned candidates won't be able to campaign properly."

Don Bigger, ASBYU executive vice president, said, "My feeling is that an overwhelming majority of the council plans to override Kasey's veto at Tuesday night's executive council meeting."

Secret tapings of JFK revealed

OSTON (AP) — The disclosure President John F. Kennedy secretly taped hundreds of White House conversations drew both shock and surprise Thursday, and Sen. Ed-ward Kennedy, D-Mass., said his only wish was transcripts of the tapes released "as soon as possible."

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., one of the few conversations with the president were recorded secretly, said, "I consider it highly improper anyone to record the conversation of a friend without informing the friend that a recording is being made."

Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger disagreed. "I don't understand what all the shouting is about," he said.

Kissinger and Long were among more than 100 people whose names appeared in a 23-page log of the JFK tapings released Thursday by the FBI in Boston.

The existence of some Kennedy tapings was revealed in 1973, but the content of the recordings, the participants and the subject matter was not known. The logs show Kennedy recorded recordings of issues ranging from Vietnam to civil rights to the Cuban Missile Crisis, and taped leaders including Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, AFL-CIO President George Meany and Henry Kissinger, then Kennedy adviser.

Edward Kennedy said in a statement released by his office: "Knowing my brother as I did, I am confident that after transcripts of the recordings are prepared and released, Americans will continue to be proud of the presidency of John Kennedy."

Dan Fenn Jr., director of the JFK Library, said transcripts will not be released until summer, and he estimated that two-thirds of the material will never be made public for reasons of national security. He said he did not expect the tapes to reveal any great secrets. "We all have the notion that there must be something big, a bombshell," Fenn said. "But I don't think that will prove out. It won't shift the Earth off its axis."

Fenn said the people being taped apparently were unaware of the recording system. "I have no reason to think they knew they were being taped," he said.

I-grade process may be revised

By LISA BARLOW
Senior Reporter

Because of abuses, the time for students to complete an incomplete grade may be reduced from one year to six months.

That's the recommendation the Students' Concerns Committee submitted to BYU administration.

A report on the incomplete grade was presented to the Faculty Advisory Council and is under consideration by the academic vice president's and president's offices.

The report said there have been many abuses with the 12,000 I's given each year.

The report, using figures from the office of Erland Peterson, assistant dean of admissions and records, said almost 45 percent — 5,400 — of students who receive incompletes do not finish the required work within a year's time. Of these, 21 percent — 1,121 — ask for an extension of time to complete the work.

"Most students didn't do any work on their I's until the month before the end of their allotted year," said Keith W. Perkins, a member of BYU's church history department and chairman of the Students' Concerns Committee. "With the time to complete an I grade reduced to six months, the shorter time will entice students to get busier quicker. Studies show they don't use the extra time anyway."

To help eliminate problems with the I grade, the report recommends a contractual-agreement form be used between the student and faculty member.

The committee also considered abolishing the grade of UW, unofficial withdrawal, and exclusively using the failing grade of E, but decided the UW tells prospective employers something about the student the E grade does not.

"It was the opinion of a number of people that when an individual does not complete a class it may be an indication to some employers that they gave up, they did not endure to the end," Perkins said. "It may also show employers they were willing to try and either were not able to do the work or took the easy way out and chose not to. Employers may sense a lack of dependability in the student they are looking at."

In exceptional cases, provision will be given to extend the completion date an additional six months by applying to the Records Office.

Anti-bus law OK'd in Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opening a season of battles over social issues, the Senate approved 58 to 38 on Thursday the toughest anti-busing legislation ever cleared by either house of Congress.

"Long-distance busing is a leech on the educational system of this country," said Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La., the principal supporter of the proposal.

The legislation, an amendment to an overall spending authorization bill for the Justice Department, would prohibit federal judges handling desegregation cases from ordering busing for students who live more than five miles or 15 minutes from their schools.

"It is a pernicious precedent," said Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich., who voted against the measure. "The courts are going to be hobbled by this kind of approach."

Further action on the overall bill was not expected until next week.

Levin said if judges are restricted on how they enforce minority rights, there is nothing to prevent Congress from intruding on other constitutional rights like free speech.

Senate conservatives have been pushing proposals to strip federal judges of authority to rule in busing, school prayer and abortion cases.

A companion anti-busing amendment also approved and sponsored by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., would bar Justice Department lawyers from seeking busing orders in federal courts.

Opponents, led by Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., condemned the amendment as an unconstitutional intrusion into the ability of federal judges to protect individual rights.

Weicker conceded that busing is unpopular, but said the Senate was bucking to unwise public pressure to enact unconstitutional legislation.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Pope, primate chat

VATICAN CITY — Pope John Paul II held "extremely delicate" talks Thursday with leaders of Poland's Roman Catholic church in an effort to agree on church policy to follow the martial law crackdown, informed sources said.

Vatican officials said the Polish-born pontiff received the Polish primate, Archbishop Jozef Glemp, and two other visiting Polish prelates, shortly after their arrival from Warsaw. Discussions continued over lunch at the pontiff's private apartment.

"The talks are extremely delicate. There is no lack of matters to be discussed," said a member of the Polish delegation who requested anonymity.

States to be losers?

WASHINGTON — Budget Director David Stockman conceded Thursday that some states may come out losers once President Reagan's "new federalism" is in place.

As he carried the Reagan plan to Congress for the first time, Stockman also ran into criticism over the administration's economics and his own credibility.

Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, accused Stockman of deliberately misleading Congress last year and questioned if he is now giving reliable figures.

"Trust is the most important element in government," Glenn said. "Mr. Stockman, we trusted you last year. The public trusted you. And we were deceived, deliberately deceived."

EPA to get slashed

WASHINGTON — President Reagan's 1983 budget will slash spending at the Environmental Protection Agency by almost a third from what it was in 1981 levels and will strip away the "safety net" that protects Americans from polluted air and contaminated water, a conservation group said Thursday.

The administration will propose spending $961 million for the EPA in its 1983 budget and a personnel level of 8,645, the National Wildlife Federation said. That would be a 39 percent drop from the $1.35 billion 1981 budget and a loss of 2,762 employees.

Y's Durham on state court

Former BYU law school adjunct professor Christine Durham was sworn in Wednesday as the first woman justice on the Utah Supreme Court.

Durham, 36, served three years as judge in the 3rd District Court in Utah following her stay at BYU, said BYU law school Dean Carl S. Hawkins. She has been appointed by Gov. Scott Matheson to fill the vacancy created by the death of Chief Justice Richard Matheson.

Durham was appointed last summer, but a legal battle between Matheson and the state Senate as to who had the power to appoint justices had to be resolved, Hawkins said.

"The Legislature was concerned with establishing a principle," Hawkins said. "They passed a bill making it necessary for the Legislature to confirm all appointments made by the governor."

Matheson has appointed all five justices to the Utah Supreme Court.

Education supports may cease

Editor's note: This is the fourth in a series on the effects of New Federalism as proposed by President Reagan in his State of the Union message last week.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Educators are fond of citing the original Northwest Ordinance of the 1790s, which set aside one-third-sixth of that vast stretch of land for educational purposes, as the start of the federal commitment to education in the United States.

But the Constitution does not mention the word "education," and the history of the federal commitment has been marked by fits and starts, ebb and flows. President Reagan's "new federalism" proposals would be only the latest turn.

If Reagan succeeds in his new-federalism plan, announced last week, to turn control of more than 40 federal programs over to the states, the federal government would jettison responsibility for most education and training for its citizens.

The Comprehensive Employment Training Act and its legacy of direct federal involvement in job programs for the poor would vanish.

Shift to states

Moreover, Reagan would shift to the states virtually all education programs, except compensatory education for the poor and the handicapped, the Work Incentive Program, vocational rehabilitation, and vocational and adult education.

The federal government still would provide loans and grants to college students, although Reagan is seeking to cut them.

The Carter and Reagan administrations already have taken deep whacks at CETA, particularly its full-time public-service jobs. Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan says CETA failed to train the poor for productive jobs in private business, despite a federal investment of $53 billion over the past seven years.

AFL-CIO President Lane Kirkland has denounced the proposed transfer of job-training responsibilities.

Only about 8 percent

The federal government pays only about 8 percent of the nation's total school bills, but it shoulders a larger share in the major cities, where public schools are filled with poor children.

When Reagan took office, the Department of Education was spending nearly $15 billion. It has since been cut to $12.5 billion and reportedly is targeted for only $10.6 billion for fiscal 1983. Reagan wants the department abolished.

On the campaign trail in 1980, Reagan blamed federal intervention for what he — and many education critics — viewed as a deterioration of standards in the schools.

Willard McGuire, president of the 1.7 million-member National Education Association, says Reagan's plan is "a blueprint for disaster."

All federal school aid

Reagan sought cuts of more than one-third in virtually all federal school aid last year. He left both the $1 billion handicapped aid and the $2.9 billion Title I program of compensatory education for needy children out of his new-federalism package. Congress last year cut only $200 million from Title I.

Many of the federal school programs were created to meet special needs Congress felt states and local school districts were neglecting.

In 1975, when Congress passed a law guaranteeing all handicapped children a "free, appropriate public education," it promised to pay 40 percent of the extra costs of educating them by 1982. But the federal share has never risen past 12 percent.

Congress converted 33 smaller programs, including desegregation aid, ethnic studies, arts education and others, into block grants last year after it cut them by 25 percent to $470 million. Those block grants would disappear under the new federalism.

The Reagan administration already has trimmed funds for vocational education, which Congress first endorsed in 1917, to $653 million from a peak of $784 million in Carter's final year.

Geneva slowdown causes new layoffs

An estimated 175 to 200 Geneva employees will be laid off beginning with Sunday's schedule, said Don Young, president of the local union of United Steelworkers of America.

This will bring the total number of unemployed workers at U.S. Steel's Geneva Works to about 1,000, one-fifth of the factory's 5,000 workers, Young said. Geneva spokesman Jack Bollow said it is too early to verify exactly how many steelworkers will be affected.

Bollow said he will know for sure how many will be affected later today, but said, "We will probably have further reductions."

Young said he was told by management that one open hearth would be reduced at the steel works, but was not told how long the shutdown would last. However, Young said, "If we don't get more steel orders, that won't be the last of the layoffs."

Young said steel orders are down and the factory cannot stockpile its product. Two weeks ago, the foundry was shut down for one week, laying off 50 employees.

The other 800 workers who were laid off are getting pretty hungry, Young said. They are having to make house payments their unemployment checks cannot handle.

Internships offered in State Department

The Washington, D.C., seminar program will sponsor several positions at the U.S. State Department during fall semester, said Laurie Wilson, managing director of the internship program.

About 40 students will serve 10-week internships during fall semester for eight hours of academic credit.

Six weeks

For the last six weeks of the semester, students may remain and take selected course work for which an additional eight hours of credit is offered, Wilson said.

"To qualify, students must be upper-division or graduate students with a 3.0 grade-point average. They should also have a background in international relations, political science, history, communications or economics," Wilson said.

Competitive

"Since students throughout the United States apply for these positions, the selection is highly competitive; however, BYU students have competed favorably in the past," she said.

"Applications for State Department positions must be completed by Feb. 15 since they require a security clearance that takes several months."

Reputation

"Our program in Washington has gained a reputation of being one of high quality. We go through a strict screening process and send only those who will represent us best," Wilson said.

"Those who have received our internships often call them the best internships they have had," Wilson said.

Academic major

Students are placed in positions that relate to their interests and academic major, she said. Placements range from public and congressional offices to private organizations.

Formerly, known as the Mexican-American Students club, HAS is broadening its perspectives, objectives and membership.

He said they didn't want another "party-time" club, but felt there were many needs other than socializing that many of the members had, like encouragement toward academic achievement, financial and employment assistance and greater cultural awareness and enhancement, which includes better relations between Hispanics and non-Hispanics.

Parties will continue this semester and freeways, home evenings, service projects, a "mesa redonda" (round table session) and a leadership conference/workshop are also scheduled. HAS wants to truly help help its members.

HAS is open to all students interested in interacting with Hispanic students.

For more information visit the Hispanic counselor in the Multi Cultural Center, 145B BRMB at 378-6255.

LEE FARNSWORTH

Y faculty member will run for seat in U.S. Congress

A BYU professor who is an eight-year member of the Utah House of Representatives will announce his candidacy for Utah's new third congressional seat Wednesday.

Dr. Lee Farnsworth, a professor of political science, is scheduled to announce his candidacy in three places: at 9 a.m. in the lounge of the House of Representatives at the State Capitol, at 10:30 a.m. in the West Jordan City Hall Council Chambers and again at 12:30 p.m. at the Provo City Council Chambers.

Farnsworth, R-Provo, said he delayed making a formal announcement of his candidacy until he could complete his responsibilities at the 44th session of the Utah Legislature, and become acquainted with citizens in the new areas of the district.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Much of America's planetary exploration program has been salvaged in President Reagan's proposed space budget for fiscal 1983.

KBYU-FM offers wide variety

By MELANIE DE VOS
Staff writer

Bach, Sherlock Holmes, Lord of the Rings, Mozart, opera and BYU firesides share a common, yet little-known, factor. Programs about each of them are offered on KBYU-FM. The station's programming consists mainly of classical music, but much more is available on the schedule, said Jeffery Priest, community relations director for KBYU.

There are operas, operettas, dramas, famous film scores, symphonies and a show called "As You Like It," where listeners can call in and request favorite classical pieces.

"It's seldom we get stumped on our request line," Priest said. "We have one of the largest classical record collections west of the Mississippi. It would take about 32 weeks, playing 24 hours a day, to go through all our records."

Purchased, gifts
These albums have been purchased, given as gifts to the university, shared from private collections or sent in by listeners. Among these are the works of Bach, Mozart, Beethoven, Pavarotti and international choirs and original Caruso recordings. All records are previewed before they are aired.

"There's a certain kind of interest (in KBYU) among the student body because it is classical music," said Walter Rudolf, station manager and program director. "The reason students should listen, however, is because they are students and presumably are here to learn something and broaden their horizons."

Dennis Campbell, operations director and radio personality for KBYU-FM, demonstrates the use of broadcasting facilities in the Harris Fine Arts Center.

"A lot of people have a certain perception of KBYU and don't understand the talent and work that goes on here," said Priest. "You can't let a minute go by without being aware that an incredibly well-put-together machine this is."

KBYU airs more than just albums, however. A live satellite feed allows programs from around the world to be taped and replayed or used live. For example, a live broadcast of "The St. John Passion" from the National Cathedral in Washington, D.C., will be aired March 21.

Many programs are produced at the station. Peter Shickel's favorite selections will be broadcast during a four-week series in April.

"In his realm, Shickel is a real genius, and what he does can be enjoyed by both those who know classical music and those who don't. He knows his art and may have sparked an interest in classical music for those who had little before," Rudolf said.

Students handle all the local news and weather broadcasts and pull the news from the wire services for KBYU. No advertising spots are used, but there are station promotions and taped public-service announcements.

Other workings at KBYU include combining with KBYU-TV for simultaneous casting, publishing their program guide in a national magazine, Ovation, and working with a community advisory board to ensure KBYU is meeting public needs and not getting into program ruts.

"We do follow ratings, but base more emphasis on feedback from our listening audience," Rudolf said.

"They'll let you know if they like your programming," said Priest. "Classical-music lovers are a passionate bunch. The only major complaint we get is that we don't play enough of one person's favorite composer."

"The thing that's exciting about working here is these people want to be good," said Don Marsh, KBYU's morning personality.

To maintain quality and attract interest, KBYU varies programming, includes historical trivia about the music and composers, and makes sure the radio personalities are qualified.

Different languages

Radio personalities must have a knowledge of the correct pronunciation of four or five different languages to quickly name the pieces played and their composers. Applicants must pass a 20-minute audition dealing with such pronunciation before being hired.

The staff at KBYU is a diverse one. Priest is a stage consultant and works with local talent as well as professional entertainers like Neil Diamond and Barry Manilow.

Rudolf was a professional opera singer with Chicago's Lyric Opera Company. Dennis Campbell, operations director and radio personality, handcrafted professional quality guitars and violins.

Marsh was named America's outstanding jazz percussionist in 1974, is a timpanist for the Mormon Youth Symphony and plays 254 percussion instruments. Afternoon personality Mike Hendricksen, a pianist and violinist, is the concert master for the Mormon Youth Symphony.

"The outside interests of these people and their backgrounds blend," Priest said. "They care and know what's happening."

"We're concerned with building an audience," Rudolf said. "If you want to be successful, you want to expand horizons and that is how we can help."

Chubby Checker ailing

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Singer Chubby Checker was in serious condition at a hospital early today, suffering from an undisclosed ailment, hospital officials said.

Checker, 40, was admitted Tuesday night to the Boone Hospital Center under his legal name, Ernest Evans, after he canceled an appearance at a local nightclub.

The club said Checker began preparing for two shows Tuesday evening, but left after a short time. He later canceled the shows, citing health reasons, the club said.

FLICK FLACK

ABSENCE OF MALICE (PG) (Sexual innuendoes, profanity) — Sally Field and Paul Newman star in a look at the newspaper profession and the sometimes devastating effect the power of print can have on the lives of individuals. The movie does for journalism what "The China Syndrome" did to the nuclear-power industry.

AN ENEMY OF THE PEOPLE (G) (International Cinema) — This production is one of the last films made by Steve McQueen before his death and is strikingly contemporary. McQueen plays Dr. Stockman, who has discovered traces of seawater in the mineral springs upon which his town hopes to found a prosperous tourist trade. Led by the mayor and the newspaper editor, the town undertakes to stifle the doctor's voice. The film was only recently released for viewing on college campuses.

BUDDY BUDDY (R) (Sexual innuendoes) — Walter Matthau and Jack Lemmon play two men who become obsessed with killing. In Matthau's case it is himself he wishes to do away with, and Lemmon stars as a frustrated hit man. "The story progresses like it's Matthau," he takes over Lemmon's job.

CINDERELLA (G) (Cartoon) — The classical tale of Cinderella brought to life by Walt Disney through animated characters. A delight for both children and adults.

FLASH GORDON (PG) (Some violence, sexual innuendo) — A delightful comic-book fantasy of a football star who becomes a hero. The film is the modern version of the original "Flash Gordon."

GIGI (G) (Film Society) — Leslie Caron stars as a little girl who grows up only to fall in love with an old friend of the family, played by Maurice Chevalier. The film is a musical and winner of seven Academy Awards.

MODERN PROBLEMS (PG) (Sexual innuendoes) — Chevy Chase portrays an air traffic controller infatuated by a dose of radioactive nuclear waste. The dose gives him special powers, which he uses to gain revenge upon associates who in the past have wronged him. In gaining revenge, Chase experiences several problems new to him. The show involves a quite shallow plot.

NEIGHBORS (R) (Language, sexual innuendo) — John Belushi and Dan Ackroyd play two neighbors in a rural area of the United States. The film is merely a comedy involving Belushi and Ackroyd and their wives, and the troubles neighbors can experience.

RAGTIME (PG) (Nudity, violence)

The Daily Universe publishes "Flick Flack," synopses of movies being shown in local theaters and on campus. The ratings listed are G (general public), PG (parental guidance suggested) and R (restricted, no one under 17 admitted without an adult). Information listed after each rating is to help explain why a movie may have a particular rating.

The synopses have been written by Universe staff members who have viewed the films, or from reviews or other source material.

Movies listed in "Flick Flack" are not necessarily endorsed by The Daily Universe.

— James Cagney stars as an insensitive police chief involved with a black entertainer turned gangster. The film takes place at about the turn of the century and is a tragedy of a man who tries to follow the law yet is forced to break it. The nudity in the film is more than what would be expected for a film of PG rating.

RAIDERS OF THE LOST ARK (PG) (Violence, profanity) — Producer George Lucas of "Star Wars" fame combines wizardry with director Stephen Spielberg of "Jaws" to produce a movie with the appeal of Saturday series. The movie follows the heroism of archaeologist Indiana Jones as he tries to outsmart Nazi Germany in finding the lost ark of the covenant; it tends to be a bit rough in spots.

REDS (PG) (Mild profanity, some violence, sex) — Warren Beatty, who wrote, directed and acted in the film, thrusts the audience into the turmoil of socialist uprising of America's 1920s and the horror of the Bolshevik Revolution. Beatty portrays John Reed, an idealistic writer, who covered these events and turned into a leader for the film cause. As director, Beatty interweaves his story line with witnesses of this era who knew Reed. This added dimension provides the additional background needed to fulfill the movie's purpose.

SHARKEY'S MACHINE (R) (Profanity, sex, very violent) — Burt Reynolds stars in an intriguing and fast-paced, but very violent, movie about an all-star policeman who doesn't back down to the bureaucrats or organized crime.

THE BLUE LAGOON (R) (Sex, nudity and violence) — Brook Shields and Christopher Atkins star as two young adolescents stranded on a deserted island, and the life they learn to live together as they grow up. The show contains a shallow plot and could be offensive.

THE JAZZ SINGER (PG) (Sexual innuendo) — Neil Diamond stars as a young Jewish cantor who breaks the tradition of his family and leaves his church position to become an entertainer in California. It is the touching story of a father who forgives his son and accepts a change in position. The story is the remake of the original "Jazz Singer."

THE MAGNIFICENT SEVEN (G) (Film Society) — A classical Western involving all the thrills of the old West, starring Yul Brynner, Steve McQueen and Charles Bronson.

UN QUILOTE SIN MANCHA (G) (International Cinema) — The modern-day story of a lawyer who is an idealist and dreamer much the same as the original Don Quixote. Many of the trials and tribulations he encounters are as entertaining as the proverbial windmill scene of Quixote. Like Quixote, the lawyer was out to slay dragons.

WARRIORS (R) (Violence, foul language) — A realistic look at gang wars in New York City. The film portrays one gang chased by the other gangs in the city, as the result of being accused of a murder it didn't do. Gang wars are a major part of the film.

VENOM (R) (Violence) — A suspense thriller with the terror of "Jaws" and the evil of "The Omen."

Dancers waltz in Seattle hall

Members of the BYU ballroom team will compete in the annual Seattle Star Ball, Friday and Saturday, as part of its Northwest tour.

Linda Wakefield, co-director for the ballroom dance teams, said the group of 38 dancers left BYU Monday and will return Sunday. The ball is one of many competitions in the United States, she said.

"We've always done well," said Tom Murdock, public relations director for the ballroom teams. The ball includes a showcase presentation and a competition for dancing couples. Wakefield said the competition consists of four divisions.

Amateur division, the highest level of ballroom dancing before professional status, and the ballroom division both require couples to demonstrate four dance numbers for judges. Pre-amateur division requires three numbers, and the novice division entails two dance routines per couple. In addition to competing, the ballroom dancers will present a 90-minute show for the showcase portion of the ball and will perform for high schools around the Seattle and Spokane, Wash., areas. They are also scheduled to teach a workshop, Wakefield said.

Wakefield and her husband, Lee, who is director for the ballroom dancers, will present a show in conjunction with the ballroom teams. They will also judge portions of the competition, she said.

He travels 'thumbs up'

By PAUL STOUT
Staff Writer
Former BYU student Neil Millman plans to hitchhike around the world starting Saturday.
Millman, 30, Carson
City, Nev., has spent the last six months preparing for his lifelong ambition of hitchhiking completely around the world. "I almost did it before my mission, but now I have enough time and enough money to do it," he said.

Millman attended
BYU for three years and later graduated from the University of Utah with a bachelor's degree in geography.
He said his education has helped him to understand the various cultures and to keep his bearings straight while traveling.

Millman said he has already hitchhiked
through 49 states and 16

Cats face CSU Rams, both squads seek win

Saturday's BYU-Colorado State game could be billed as the "meeting of defeated giants." Both teams are struggling to stay afloat in the WAC race, despite early-season successes.

The Cougars and the CSU Rams will have their chance to begin salvaging what is left of their dismal conference season in this weekend's match-up. Both BYU and CSU stumbled and stumbled through their conference games last week. The Cougars lost to San Diego State 80-66, then lost in the last seconds to the Rainbow Warriors of Hawaii for a 62-60 decision.

Colorado State fared no better, losing to New Mexico 76-58 and to UTEP 87-60.

BYU's season record stands at 12-9 overall and 4-5 in Western Athletic Conference play.

CSU is 7-11 overall and 2-6 in the WAC. The Cougars lost to the Rams 50-40 in Fort Collins on Jan. 7, and even though the "must win" games are over for BYU, the Mountain Cats will be out to avenge their earlier loss.

Although BYU managed to chalk up wins against Utah and Air Force since the Cats were in Fort Collins, it seems the Colorado State game was a turning point in the season for the Cats.

A turn for the worse.

Since the CSU loss, the Cougars have dropped two contests to Wyoming. The second loss to the Cowboys began a three-game losing streak for BYU.

The Cougars, who are 0-4 on the road, have been plagued by more than their fair share of injuries this year.

Guard Mike Maxwell is the latest injured player, with a jammed index finger and a leg that must be taped from ankle to thigh every game.

One CSU player the Cougars will be paying special attention to is 5-foot-10 senior guard Eddie Hughes.

Hughes, a two-time all-WAC selection, is sixth in the Colorado State record books in all-time scoring.

Hughes does have a minor problem though . . . he injured his ankle earlier in the season and still plays with a distinct limp.

Cougar coach Frank Arnold lost five consecutive games to the Rams when he began coaching at BYU.

The Cougars then won the next seven meetings, around the time All-American guard Danny Ainge appeared in Provo.

On Jan. 7, the Rams ended their losing streak to the Cats. Now it's up to BYU to determine how long its own losing streak will last.

Tony McAndrews, head coach of the CSU Rams, has been at Fort Collins only two years, with a WAC mark that stands at 10-35. Arnold's record is 117-76.

Several Colorado State players have shown they can score when they need to.

Tim Murphy leads the Rams with a 12.1 points-per-game average and is listed as the 13th best scorer in the WAC.

CSU forward Mark Steele follows Murphy with an 11.4 average, with Hughes close behind at 11.1.

Steve Trumbo, who had to sit out the last CSU contest because of eligibility questions, is back in the lineup for the Cougars. As a result, things have been looking up somewhat.

Fred Roberts is fourth in the conference in scoring with an average of 15.5 points per game.

And if rebounding has been a question, Trumbo has proven BYU is one of the top teams in the nation.

Trumbo is ranked 19th in this week's NCAA basketball statistics in rebounding, with 11.4 per game.

For the Cougars to salvage a 20-win season, they must win eight of their remaining nine games. The Cats will have only two of those games at home, against SDSU and Hawaii.

Basketball Notes: Before CSU travels south to Provo for a meeting with BYU, the Rams will play a conference game with the Utah Utes tonight in the Special Events Center.

The Western Athletic Conference-TVS game of the week will be at New Mexico when the UNM Lobos play the UTEP Miners.

In other conference games Saturday, Air Force will be at Hawaii and conference leader Wyoming will be at Utah . . . in a non-conference game, UNLV will be at San Diego State.

The Pokes, at 8-1, still have a half-game lead on the Rainbow Warriors, now 7-1 in the WAC . . . the SDSU Aztecs are following closely behind with a 6-2 record.

The remainder of the pack is headed by UTEP, 5-6; BYU, 4-5; Utah, 3-5; New Mexico, 2-6; Colorado State, 2-6; and Air Force, 0-8.

The Cougars will play only one game this week . . . next week the Cats will be on the road to UNLV on Friday, and to Colorado Springs and the Air Force Academy to meet the Falcons on Saturday.

For sports information and calendar, call Tele-Tip, 378-7420, tape 178.

Y wrestlers at UNM meet

It's off to Albuquerque, N.M., for BYU's wrestling team.

The Cougars are on the way to capturing their fourth tournament title of the season, grappling in the New Mexico Wrestling Invitational.

Teams from the University of New Mexico, BYU, Central State from Oklahoma and Western State are entered in the tournament.

Last weekend at the Mountain Intercollegiate Wrestling Association tournament, the Cougars defended their MIWA title against a field of 15 teams, including New Mexico and Western State.

The Cougars enter the New Mexico Invitational with a little more confidence, since some of their injured starters will be returning to the lineup.

Kerry Hiatt, who wrestles in the 167-pound division, has recovered from a knee injury he received at the University of Oregon match Jan. 27.

Another Cougar returning to the starting lineup is Neldon Gardner.

Gardner, the WAC runner-up last year at 134-pound classification, is ready to return after recovering from knee surgery. He will be wrestling in the 142-pound class.

153-pound Billy Boyd won't be wrestling for the Cougars in New Mexico because of a pinched nerve in his arm.

Women meet 'Pokes, Rams

The BYU women's basketball team will test its third-ranked offense against two tough league opponents.

Wyoming and Colorado State, this weekend in the Marriott Center.

The Cougars will play Wyoming today at 7:30 p.m. and Colorado State on Saturday at 5 p.m. before the men's basketball game.

The women Cougars shot holes through the Cowboys' defense during their last dual contest this season in Laramie, coming away with a 57-72 win.

But in Colorado the team wasn't as hot, and as a result the Cougars suffered an 86-50 loss at the hands of the Rams.

So the women's team, like the men's team, will be trying to avenge a CSU loss from earlier this season.

Coming off last week's disappointing loss to the University of Colorado, the 15-11 women Cougars will be looking to tighten up the conference race by improving their league record of 3-2.

Leading the Cougars will be All-American and Wade Trophy finalist Jackie Beene McBride, who is ranked 21st in the nation in scoring with 21.1 points per game.

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Zack Jones and Eddie Morris scored 14 points each Thursday night, leading San Diego State to a 67-55 Western Athletic Conference victory over the Air Force Academy.

The victory was the fifth in a row for the Aztecs, who are 7-2 in WAC play and 15-5 overall.

BRIGHAM YOUNG UNIVERSITY Developing a Healthy Self-Image

How do you feel about yourself? Many of our actions and values are based on the feelings we have about our self worth. In no other area is a positive opinion so important.

Negative self-concept is a major human problem which results in enormous personal and economic costs.

Learn practical guides for the enhancement of self-concept in this new course which has become one of the most popular offerings of the BYU Division of Continuing Education.

The response from former students has been very positive; many of them indicate that this class has been especially helpful to them and that they would like to spend more time in it.

The basic course concepts are scripturally based, having been distilled from the standard works and the teachings of the past and present presidents of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

The following topics will be discussed:

- The fundamental characteristics possessed by the inner spirit of each individual.
- The origin and development of the substitute self that emerges as a defense against the negative experiences of life.
- How the real self can deal with the substitute self.
